Answer the following question according to the paragraph.

There has been a controversy going on between generations since the beginning of human history. Many parents who have been actively involved in their children's early years stand aside the moment their children become teenagers. This counts on the common belief that once the children have become teenagers, there's nothing more parents can do. However, studies clearly show that it's still important for parents to be involved when the children are teenagers. Good parenting continues to help teenagers develop in healthy ways, stay out of trouble and do well in school. According to experts, parents shouldn't fluctuate when they wish to praise their teenage children or to show them physical affection.

About the parents who have teenage children, it is clearly stated in the passage that

- A) they should show no hesitation when they want to praise their children
- B) they had better show some respect to their children's private lives
- C) they need to be more careful towards their children as youngsters are fragile
- D) they should take part in their children's school life regardless of any objections
- E) nobody should intervene with teenagers' school lives
